3. The user is fully responsible for damage arising through incorrect manipulation with computer technology, including damage caused by user-induced viruses.
4. The user may not:
 - a) use computers located in various parts of the library for other than the designated purposes
 - b) attempt to obtain access rights or privileged status without entitlement. In the event of this occurring as a result of a hardware or software system error, the user is obliged to report this immediately to a member of staff
 - c) provide access rights to a third party and engage in activity which would lead to an intrusion into the privacy of another user in the event the other user through carelessness would enable access to sensitive data (for example forgetting to sign out of an e-mail account).
 - d) use other programmes than those provided by the ERLPR; in particular the user may not use his/her own programmes
 - e) copy and distribute the operating systems of the ERLPR, installed applications, programmes and data bases or parts thereof
 - f) distribute illegal programmes, i.e. those not obtained or used in accordance with the law and licensed products

- g) deliberately interfere with the work of other computer users, such as the running and efficiency of the network, e.g. by placing undue stress on the source, likewise using the network for unregistered and unmonitored access to other networks or the spreading of computer viruses.
 - h) interfere with the configuration and set-up of a computer
5. Operation of the ERLPR data network may be restricted or interrupted due to essential (hardware or software) maintenance or for other serious reasons.
 6. The library is not responsible for any damage caused by a breakdown in hardware or software arising as a result of using computers at the ERLPR.
 7. The internet at the ERLPR is accessible as a source of information solely for the personal use of the user and primarily for study purposes. It is forbidden to seek, look at, print or spread WWW pages with pornographic or offensive nationalist or religious contents, pages promoting racism, violence or advocating the use of drugs. It is also forbidden to play games, whether gambling related or not, and anything else incompatible with the valid legal regulations.
 8. The user must respect all authorial rights in accordance with the law. Information obtained may not in any form be further spread, photocopied or copied, loaned, passed on, distributed, sold or otherwise used, especially for commercial purposes.
 9. Free use of the internet is available only to registered users of the ERLPR with a valid user card or user pass valid until closing time on a given calendar day (hereinafter single-visit card; see art. 8 of the LR). This authorisation is not transferable.
 10. A valid user card or single-visit card serves to identify the user before s/he begins to use the facilities. By signing in to the network, the user agrees to all his/her computer activity being monitored and makes a commitment to upholding the conditions of the Library Regulations.
 11. The library does not guarantee the availability of a vacant computer with free internet access via a land line; if all the computers with this facility are occupied, the user must wait until one of the computers becomes available.
 12. The library is not responsible for the non-functioning of webs of a third party, not even in the case of incompatibility with the installed browser.
 13. No claims can be made for internet services requiring the installation of supplementary software.
 14. The speed of connection of individual stations to the internet is not guaranteed. Therefore no claims can be made for the accessibility of internet facilities requiring a higher speed of data transmission than that which is available.
 15. In supervised study rooms the basic period for free internet access is 30 minutes; upon the request of the user this period may be extended by a further 30 minutes (i.e. + 30 minutes) only if no other user is waiting for a free computer.

16. In supervised study rooms any decision on extending internet access beyond the basic period is fully within the competence of the library staff with a view to the specific situation.
17. In supervised study rooms preference is given to an ERLPR user who is using the electronic search facility, in which case there is no time limit on use of the free internet.
18. In the event of an increased number of people entitled to use the free internet access in the supervised study rooms, the order will be determined by the library staff.
19. There is a fee for printing pages (see App. 1 of the LR). The user is responsible for the correct setting of the printer (number of pages and number of copies) and for paying for all printed pages.

Article 14

Wireless internet access at the ERLPR

1. On the premises of the ERLPR users have at their disposal a wireless internet connection (hereinafter WiFi).
2. For signing into the network by WiFi, the same user name and password are used as for signing in to a user account.
3. There is no legal claim to this service and the library is not responsible for any loss of connection, lower quality or any damage the user may suffer as a result of such eventualities.
4. Communication in this network is not encrypted.
5. The library is not responsible for liabilities towards a third person which may arise as a result of a user using the WiFi facility.
6. The library does not provide users with equipment (notebook, PDA etc) for using these facilities or technical support to those users using their own portable devices.

II. REGULATIONS ON LOANS

Article 15

General conditions concerning loans

1. The agreement of a loan between the user and the ERLPR in the form of a circulating or non-circulating loan is governed by the legal regulations of the CR, in particular law 89/2012 of the Civil Code as amended, and these Library Regulations.

Article 16

ERLPR conditions concerning the loan of items

1. The loan of items is decided upon by the ERLPR. Loans are conducted in accordance with the mission of the ERLPR, taking into account the conservation aspect of a selected part of the stock and general requirements for the protection of the stock.
2. The following are on no account loaned outside the building:
 - a) items which for the ERLPR are irreplaceable and could be lost or damaged (e.g. specially designated library collections, printed matter issued up to 1918)
 - b) items belonging to the conservation fund obtained by the so-called statutory copy according to a special legal ruling (periodicals, including newspapers and regional publications)
 - c) items required for the daily running of the ERLPR (e.g. items in the reference library, items intended for staff needs etc.)
 - d) items on loan from foreign universities (IIS) or libraries in the CR (IS), a condition of which is study room loans only
 - e) certain other items (microfilm, microfiche, gramophone records, compact discs according to authorial law, Czech technical norms² and audio-visual documents on CD-ROM, DVD or VHS and others³)
3. Printed periodicals stored at the ERLPR in digital form or on microfilm are accessible only via these media. The original is loaned only on-site on the basis of an exception

² According to para. 8 of law 22/1997 on technical requirements of a product and supplementation of certain laws, Czech technical norms may be multiplied or extended only with the agreement of an authorised person or with the agreement of the Czech Office for Standards, Metrology and Testing.

granted by the director for a proven research purpose. The ERLPR reserves the right to refuse such requests.

4. Requests for items from the main storehouse of the ERLPR are usually met within one hour. Items from dislocated storehouses in Pilsen are transported twice daily, from the Bušovice depository as a rule once a week but no later than within five working days. Upon placement of an order, the staff member dealing with the loan protocol will inform the user of the earliest opportunity for collecting the item. The information is also in the electronic catalogue.
5. The study of rare items and selected items from the historical stock is subject to specific regulations. Such library items are placed in an air-conditioned depository and thus are provided for study only in the air-conditioned research study room. The user is obliged to follow the rules of the research study room and instructions of the research room staff (see art. 23 of the LR).

Article 17

Circulating loans

1. Users may borrow documents from the library book stock stored either in closed storehouses or in free selection. Free selection is available in the main building of the ERLPR (Smetanovy sady 2) on the third floor or in the music cabinet on the first floor and in foreign library departments (nám. Republiky 12). Documents may be borrowed from the section of foreign libraries (nám. Republiky 12) or the music cabinet (Smetanovy sady 2). Documents available for free selection are intended for direct loans and may not be ordered via an account in the electronic catalogue. The ordering of such items via the electronic catalogue is possible only in the event that they are out on loan and not physically present on the free selection shelves.
2. Prior to ordering an item the user signs into his account in the library's electronic catalogue or via the internet. The user signs in initially using the number of his/her library card and given password. The user is later obliged to change this password. (Passwords should be selected in accordance with general guidelines for safe passwords: a minimum of six characters, containing one upper case letter, one number and one special character, e.g. @ # & $ ^ _ *, etc.)
3. Searching in the catalogue, ordering and placing a reservation are done independently by the user based on the chosen criteria, or with the assistance of library staff. If all copies of the given title are on loan, the loan system offers the possibility of a reservation, after which the user, in the event of the item being returned by a previous user, will be invited by e-mail to collect the item. In the same way the user is invited immediately to collect items which at the time of the order are available. Cancellation of a reservation may be done solely by library staff; the electronic catalogue does not allow this. All other orders, reservations and loans are evidenced by the automatic loan system. The system decides automatically on the allocation of specific items and as to whether a loan may be realised or extended.

Items hitherto unregistered in the electronic catalogue are ordered by means of a hard copy application.

4. The ordered item should be collected by the user within the set time period. The time for arranging such orders is covered by item 4 of art. 16 of the LR. The ordered items are available for collection in the loan protocol for a period of 8 calendar days following their delivery from the storehouse. The same period applies in the loan protocol for reserved items following their return by a previous user. After this period has elapsed, the prepared items are disregarded or allocated to a further user.
5. The user confirms collection of an item and awareness of the loan period by a signature on the protocol printed by the loan system either on the loan protocol or at the service counter in the free selection. The protocol is printed with a copy; the original remains at the ERLPR and the copy is given to the user.
6. In the case of loans carried out by the self-check system situated in the area of the free selection of books in the main building of the ERLPR, the user does not sign a receipt; however, s/he still bears full responsibility for the loan. Likewise the user is obliged to inform staff at the check-out counter of any damage or incompleteness ascertained prior to realisation of the loan via the self-check system. User card and user password are necessary for the self-check service.
7. After signing in to the electronic catalogue, the user is able, through his/her account to check the current status of loans, reservations and fees, as well as extend the loan time of circulating items.
8. When accepting a loan item, the user is obliged without delay to inform protocol staff or staff in free selection of any damage or incompleteness. Failure to do so will result in the user being held responsible for any damage ascertained subsequently.
9. The user may at any time request a print-out showing the current status of his/her user account.
10. Circulating loans are subject to the following restrictions
 - a) number of active loans: 30
 - b) number of requested items for one calendar day: 20

Article 18

Circulating loans of other items

When borrowing other items from the stock of the ERLPR, the following rules apply:

- a) the loan period for text items containing static pictures, sound and computer programs on CD ROM or DVD is 14 calendar days and the loan is free of charge; if required, the loan may be extended by two further loan periods, provided the item is not requested by another user

- b) the loan period for selected sound items on compact discs is 14 calendar days and the loan is free of charge; if required, the loan may be extended by two further loan periods, provided the item is not requested by another user. The maximum number of active circulating loans is 10 items
- c) the loan period for selected audio-visual items (films) from the stock of the German Library is 14 calendar days and the loan is free of charge; if required, the loan may be extended by two further loan periods, provided the item is not requested by another user
- d) the loan period for selected sound items on audio-cassettes is 14 calendar days and the loan is free of charge; if required, the loan may be extended by two further loan periods, provided the item is not requested by another user
- e) other items on CD ROM, DVD, compact discs and audio-cassettes are subject to the non-circulating regulations (see art. 22 of the LR)
- f) copying items referred to in art. 18 of the LR is forbidden
- g) the user may request a library staff-member to check the recording of a borrowed item
- h) the loan of these items is subject to all further relevant conditions of the Library Regulations

Article 19

Inter-library services at the ERLPR

1. If the ERLPR does not stock a requested item, it can, on the request of a registered user, arrange for a loan or copy of part of a document or article from a periodical from another library in the CR or a library abroad. In so doing, the library follows the valid rules and conditions⁴ for inter-library services (hereinafter IS) and guidelines of the ERLPR.
2. The loan period of items loaned via the IS is set by the loaning library, which also reserves the right to loan the item on-site only
3. For IS loans the user will be charged only with postage costs (see App. 1 of the LR) and the actual cost of acquiring and sending the requested copies. Such costs will be charged to the user even in the event that the ordered items are not collected following a request to do so within a given time limit.
4. The user is obliged to respect the stated loan period for items loaned via the IS and in the event of an item not being returned within this period s/he will receive a reminder initially sent by e-mail if an e-mail address was provided at registration. Should the user fail to react to this reminder (sent in electronic form only), a second reminder will be sent after seven days have elapsed, then a third reminder seven days later. The second and third reminders will be sent by registered post, regardless of the non-delivery of a previous first reminder. The second and third reminders will be charged at the rate stated in the price list of the Library Regulations of the ERLPR. Failure to return an item after the first reminder will result in a blocking of the user's account for further circulating loan facilities.

5. In the framework of IS and IIS the library which applied for the loan is answerable for the fulfilling of responsibilities by the user. It is obliged to uphold the general legal and methodological conditions regarding IS, the relevant guidelines of the director of the ERLPR and these Library Regulations.
6. The loss of or damage to an item loaned via IS is dealt with according to para. III. Fines in App. 1 of the LR.

Article 20

Loan period of circulating loans

1. The universal loan period for all users is 30 calendar days, with the exception of items referred to in art. 18 of the LR and loans according to art. 22 of the LR.
2. If an item has not been requested by another user, the loan of the said item may be extended. The maximum loan period is 90 days. Thereafter the user is required to present the item for checking and apply for a renewal of the loan. The possibility of extending the loan is determined by the loan system, which also provides a new date for returning the item. A loan may be extended by the user him-/herself by means of the user account or via library staff when visiting the library personally or via telephone.
3. The library reserves the right in exceptional circumstances to request the immediate return of an item even prior to the expiry of the loan period.
4. The approaching termination of the validity of a user card entails a curtailment of the loan period for an item. The length of the loan period for individual items is stated in the loan period. The reader expresses agreement with the protocol by appending his/her signature.

Article 21

The return of circulating loan items

1. The staff member receiving a loaned item conducts a check and decides whether the item has been returned in good condition. If the item has been returned in good condition, the library will issue upon request a printed document (protocol) concerning the returned item.
2. If the user returns an item via the Czech Post or another delivery service, s/he is obliged to wrap the item appropriately and send it by registered post to the correct address. For such items no printed document (protocol) concerning the returned item can be issued. Completion of the operation may be verified via the user account or by e-mail or by telephone. Damaged or incomplete items returned in this manner will not be cleared from the user's account.

3. The user may also return borrowed items (with the exception of CDs, DVDs etc) via the so-called bibliobox of the ERLPR or University Library of the UWB (see App. 5 of the LR)⁵. Items returned in this manner will be cleared from the user's account as a rule the following working day. For such items no printed document (protocol) concerning the returned item can be issued. Completion of the operation may be verified via the user account at the appropriate library, or by e-mail or by telephone. Damaged or incomplete items returned in this manner will not be cleared from the user's account.
4. The user may not lend a borrowed item to other persons. The user is responsible for the loaned item for the period in which it is registered as a loan in the automatic loan system (except in cases where the non-clearance of a loaned item from a user's account is the result of a demonstrable error on the library's part). The user is obliged to return an item in the same condition in which it was borrowed.
5. The user is obliged to respect a summons from the library for the return of the item.

Article 22

Non-circulating loans

1. Non-circulating loans are conducted via study-rooms: general study rooms, journal reading rooms, special study rooms, music cabinet and departments of foreign libraries. Access to these workplaces is on the basis of presenting a valid user card.
2. A visitor to a study room may use only one place of study.
3. The user may use from the reference library publications required for study during working hours.
4. Ordering items from storehouses is carried out by means of the user account in the electronic catalogue. The user initially signs with the number of the user card and given password. The password can then be changed to one of personal choice. Searching in the catalogue, ordering and placing a reservation are done independently by the user based on the chosen criteria, or with the assistance of library staff. When ordering an item from the storehouse, one of the study rooms is selected (general study room, journal reading room, special study room or music cabinet) via which the item will be made accessible. Items hitherto unregistered in the electronic catalogue are ordered by means of a hard copy application form available from library staff.
5. The period for arranging orders is governed by item 4 of art. 14 of the LR. In the event of an item being ordered via the electronic catalogue, the user is informed of the availability of the loan in the selected study room by means of an e-mail, which is free of charge. In the event that the requested item is out on loan, it is possible to reserve it via one's personal account. Only a member of staff may cancel a reservation. In the event of an item being returned by a previous user, the user is informed of the loan in the selected study room by means of an e-mail.

6. The loan of an item from the depository to one of the study rooms is for 14 days; this period may be extended by study room personnel, provided the item is not requested by another user. The loan period is calculated from the time when the item is received from the storehouse by study room staff.
7. Requests for loans of rare items and selected items from the historical stock of the ERLPR are governed by art. 23 of the LR.
8. In the magazine room the user may study items on microfilm on a reading device.
9. Any personal items brought by the user for study purposes must be checked upon entry by a designated member of staff of the ERLPR; and likewise upon departure.
10. Users of study rooms are permitted to use copying devices only according to instructions of study room staff.
11. For non-circulating loans, the following limits apply:
 - a) number of active loans: 5
 - b) number of requests for one calendar day: 5 items

Article 23

2. The research study room provides services only to registered users on the basis of art. 10 of the LR.
3. A request for loans of printed material and study in the research room is submitted by an application form in the general study room of the ERLPR, by telephone (377 306 910) or via the internet (vzacnetisky@svkpk.cz) at least one working day in advance of the requested study period.
4. Prior to entering the research study room, the user should leave all outer clothing and baggage in the cloakroom. Personal items (such as stationery) must be submitted for inspection to the staff of the research study room.
5. The user may reserve a maximum of five rare items for study. The maximum period of the loan is 14 days from the date of access.

6. The researcher will be required to sign for the requested document.
7. Rare documents stored at the ERLPR in digital form or on microfilm are accessible only via these media. The original is loaned only in non-circulating form on the basis of an exception granted by the director of the ERLPR for a proven research purpose. The ERLPR reserves the right not to grant such a request.
8. It is strictly forbidden to interfere with a loaned document in any way and to make copies thereof.
9. For note-taking the researcher is obliged to use only a pencil and personal computer.
10. Digital photography is permissible only by agreement with research study room staff and without the use of a flash.
11. The researcher is obliged to follow instructions given by study room staff. Failure to do so may result in a refusal to allow further use of research study room facilities.
12. If a researcher uses the research study room with a view to publication, s/he is obliged to cite the source correctly and state as the source the stock of the ERLPR.
13. Using historical stock for purposes of publication is possible only by written agreement with the ERLPR and permission of the director of the ERLPR. There is no charge for non-commercial use; a charge is made for commercial use according to the valid price list of the ERLPR (see App. 1 of the LR).

Article 24

Contractual charges, fines and recovery of unreturned loans

1. The library stock is the property of the Pilsen region and is afforded special protection.
2. If exceeding the loan period, the user is obliged to pay the ERLPR a fine for each day late. The fine comes into effect the day after the stated return date. If this final day falls on a day when the ERLPR is closed, the valid date will be the next nearest loan day. Failure to pay such a fine will result in a reminder being sent and the amount of the fine will be increased by the cost of postage. The fine applies individually to each loaned item signed for and for each day or part of a day late.
3. Upon the return or renewal of items whose loan period has expired, the library will charge a fine which the user is obliged to pay even if s/he has received no reminder from the library.
4. If the user fails to keep the loan period, a reminder will be sent as follows:
 - first reminder 8 days after expiry of the loan period
 - second reminder 30 days after the first reminder
 - third reminder after a further 30 days, advising of the initiation of legal procedures

The first reminder is sent free of charge to the user's e-mail address. Should the user have no e-mail address, these reminders are sent by the Czech Post, registered mail. The second reminder is always sent by the Czech Post, registered mail. The third reminder (an extrajudicial summons) is always sent by the Czech Post, registered mail with a delivery receipt. There is a fee for the issuing of reminders delivered by the Czech Post; the amount for reminders is added together. The charge for reminders always applies to each individual non-returned library item. For further details see App. 1 of the LR.

5. Any deliberate damage or theft of items from the library stock will be subject to the standard legal procedures which will not affect the right of the ERLPR to full compensation, fines or payment of costs in connection with its rightful claims.
6. The user is obliged to pay all other costs arising as a result of the ERLPR retrieving unreturned loans and debt payments by legal means.

Article 25

Compensation for lost, damaged or destroyed items

1. The user should inform the library immediately of the loss of any item, whether printed matter, CD or DVD etc.
2. The user is obliged to replace any lost, damaged or destroyed item by a copy of the same title. By agreement with the ERLPR it is possible to replace it with a quality printed copy (with the exception of items on CD ROMs, CDs, DVDs and audio-cassettes according to the authorial law) including a modified cover. The ERLPR may accept as a replacement a different edition of the same item.
3. The value of printed copies as replacements for a lost or damaged item may be expressed as the sum of the costs of copying (established as the total number of pages in the item and cost per page of the given format) and the binding.
4. The loss of an item may, upon the decision of a qualified member of staff, be replaced by another item of the same financial value or likewise replaced by a financial payment equivalent to the full value of the item plus the cost of the library's processing of the item. This option is used by the ERLPR in cases where the completeness of the library stock will not be compromised.
5. The user is obliged to pay for all expenses incurred by the ERLPR in connection with any damage caused and removal of the consequences thereof, in particular costs connected with preparation of the replacement item (see App. 1 of the LR).

3. The library arranges group trips with expert commentary on the ERLPR and lectures for the benefit of users.

Article 27

Reprographic facilities

1. Instead of the loan of a printed item, it is possible to request a copy thereof for the private or internal use of a user, whilst respecting authorial rights in the sense of §30 and §30a of law 121/2000 on authorial rights, rights linked to authorial rights and the modification of certain laws (authorial law) as amended.
2. Copies can be made by self-service in the study room up to a maximum of 10 pages; more extensive copying is by arrangement⁶.
3. The ERLPR prepares copies on the basis of a user order. When accepting an order, the library may require a deposit be made; this will then be deducted from the final overall cost of the work.
4. Copies will be made only of ERLPR items or items borrowed by the ERLPR within the framework of inter-library services both in the CR and abroad, and only for the personal use of the user.

Loan regulations of the Library for the visually impaired

Education and Research Library of the Pilsen Region, allowance organisation

1. The stock of audio items consists of recordings of literary musical works of all genres recorded on sound track – audio-cassettes and CDs. Sound books are for the exclusive use of visually impaired users and users whose extent of incapacity either permanently or temporarily prevents them from reading printed documents. A condition for borrowing audio items is a properly completed user's application form. If the user is a ZTP/P card holder, a copy of this card should be attached to the application; otherwise an official optician's note is required. In the case of minors, the application should be signed by a legally responsible person who is then answerable for borrowed audio documents and committed to recompensing any loss. The user is obliged without delay to inform staff of the ERLPR Library for the visually impaired of any changes to the data provided in the application form.
2. Audio books are loaned to both adults and children free of charge, both in the form of loans collected in person or sent as a package.
3. The loan period is set at 4 weeks. If required the loan period may be extended either in writing or by telephone for up to a maximum of 2 months. If the loaned item is not returned within the stipulated limit and no reason is given, the user receives a reminder. Failure to react to the reminder will result in the sending of a second and, if necessary, third reminder. If even then the item (audio book) is not returned, legal measures may be taken.
4. The user is personally responsible for borrowed audio books. In the event the user is using the in-person loan service and for health reasons is unable to visit the library personally, the loan of an audio book may be carried out by a helper, namely a person who is related to or takes care of the user. In such cases the helper assumes responsibility for the borrowed audio book and compensation for any loss. Upon returning the book, the user is obliged to announce any damage which appeared while handling the book or which was caused by the user, giving precise details of the type of damage, plus the sequence number or track on the audio recording. Users themselves are not permitted to carry out any repairs on audio books.
5. For unintentional damage of audio books the library does not require compensation. If however gross negligence results in the loss or destruction of an item in the ownership of the K. E. Macan Library and Printing House for the Sightless in Prague, the user is obliged to pay compensation in the form of purchasing an appropriate number of unrecorded audio items of the same length and quality. If the user loses books recorded on cassette, then the number of cassettes is replaced by an equivalent number of CDs: an audio-book recorded on 1-19 cassettes is replaced by 1 CD; an audio-book recorded on 20-29 cassettes is replaced by 2 CDs; an audio-book recorded on 30-39 cassettes is replaced by 3 CDs, etc.

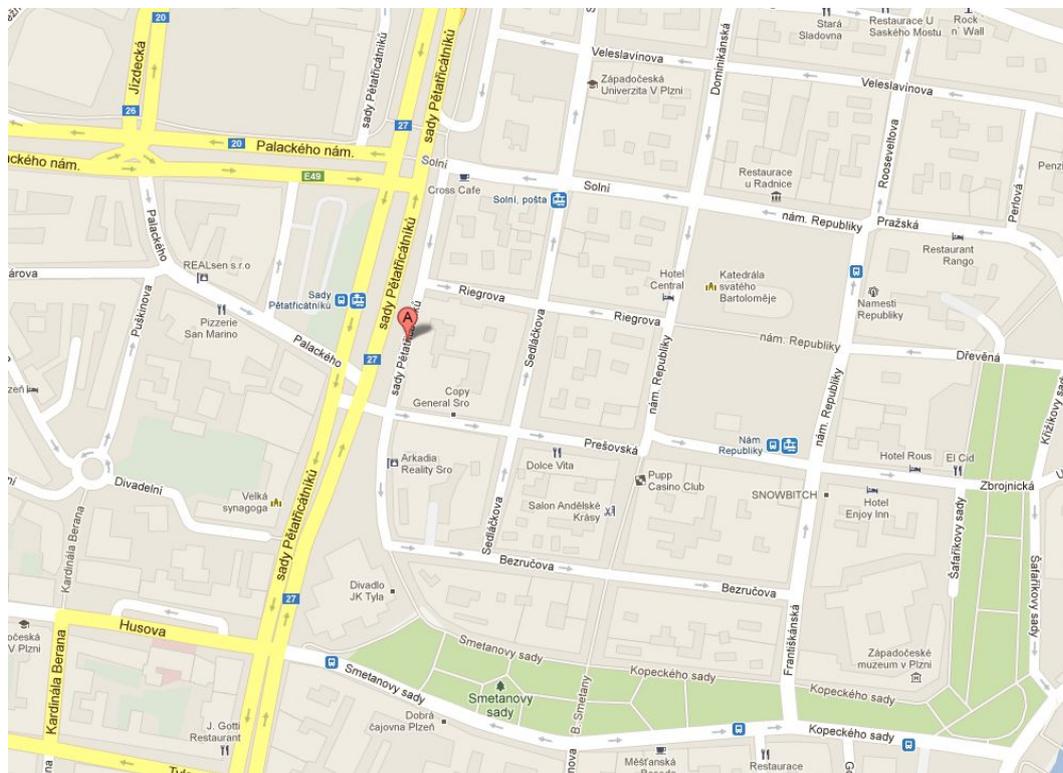

A user who loses or through gross negligence damages an audio book may be barred from borrowing further audio books until such time as appropriate compensation for the said loss or negligence has been provided.

6. Borrowed audio books on cassette should be stored in a clean, dust-free environment in a protective cover outside magnetic or electro-magnetic fields. Borrowed audio books on CD should be stored in a clean, dust-free environment in a protective cover. When handling audio books, basic rules of hygiene should be followed. Every user is obliged to keep the audio-book player in good technical condition, ensuring its regular cleaning and expert technical control.
7. The mutual exchange or loaning of recordings between users without the direct participation of the library is forbidden. Failure to observe this condition may result in membership of the Library for the visually impaired being terminated.
8. The loan of documents purchased from financial means of the ERLPR and grants for CDs which are the property of the ERLPR:
 - these items are loaned only in person; on no account can they be loaned via package delivery
 - the loan period for these items is one month, after which period the user is obliged to return the item or submit it for checking and make a request for a further loan
 - at any one time the user may borrow a maximum of three items for one month. In the event of an item having more parts (CDs, CD-ROMs), only one item is permitted
 - For unintentional damage of audio books the library does not require compensation. If, however, gross negligence results in the loss or destruction of an audio item, the user is obliged to provide a replacement of the same item or an item of similar genre on CD.
9. The loan of documents purchased from financial means of the ERLPR and grants for cassettes which are the property of the ERLPR
 - these items may loaned either in person or by package delivery; there is no limit to the number of items which may be borrowed at any one time
 - the loan period for these items is one month; the loan may be extended either in writing or by telephone for a maximum of 2 months
 - For unintentional damage of audio books the library does not require compensation. If, however, gross negligence results in the loss or destruction of an audio item, the user is obliged to provide a replacement of the same item or an item of similar genre on CD.
10. It is forbidden to make copies of audio books from the stock of the Library for the visually impaired at the ERLPR which would be at variance with law 121/2000 on authorial law, rights linked with authorial law and the amendment of certain laws (authorial law).
11. The fixed opening hours of the Library for the visually impaired are: Monday and Wednesday, 10.00–12.00 and 13.00–19.00; Thursday 13.00–15.00. In the holiday period or in the case of state holidays, opening hours may differ from the regular times. The times are displayed in the Library for the visually impaired and on the ERLPR website (www.svkpk.cz).
12. If requested, users from outside Pilsen may be sent audio books via post at regular intervals.

13. Packets are sent by recorded delivery and as printed matter for the visually impaired, in accordance with post office regulations, are exempt from all charges. Users are obliged to return audio books in the same way; thus packages with audio books also contain a partially completed recorded delivery form and a label bearing the address of the Library for the Sightless of the ERLPR. The user is obliged to place the item in the prepared package in which it was sent, add a report on the condition of the returned recordings and fill in the sender's address on the return label. All audio books must be returned within the required deadline; if a book consists of more audio storage devices, all these devices should be returned as one set. The user should keep the recorded delivery receipt at least until a further package has been received; however, a period of 12 months from the date of posting is recommended.
14. Every user receives from the Library for the visually impaired a list of titles on audio storage devices which the library has in stock. Titles may be ordered from this list.
15. Requests from users outside Pilsen are treated as long-term orders, containing at least 30 items. Such orders should contain the pressmark, author and title of the book. Orders must be written clearly either in normal handwriting or block letters, always with a signature and the complete address of the applicant. New orders and all further information for the library should be included in the package in which the audio books are being returned.
16. Those interested in audio books are recommended to visit the website of the K. E. Macan Library and Printing House for the Visually Impaired in Prague www.ktn.cz, where there is a list of contact addresses and specialised workplaces for sightless and visually handicapped readers at public libraries and information about new audio book titles produced by the K.E. Macan Library and Printing House for the Visually Impaired in Prague.

Processing and protection of users' personal data

I. Processing of personal data

The Education and Research Library of the Pilsen Region (hereinafter ERLPR), an allowance organisation, is the administrator of the personal data of its registered users, as well as that of non-registered users and visitors. The ERLPR processes personal data in accordance with Regulation (EU) 2016/679 of the European Parliament and of the Council on the protection of physical persons in connection with the processing of personal data and the free movement of such data and the abolition of guideline 95/46/ES (general ruling on the protection of personal data).

The purpose of processing personal data is the administration of services provided and the records of registered and non-registered users associated therewith, as well as records of participants in educational courses, seminars, excursions, cultural events etc., organised by the ERLPR.

The ERLPR processes basic and other personal data of the afore-mentioned subjects, statistical data, service data, accounting data and legal data. Such data is processed for the following reasons:

- a) providing users with relevant information on the basis of an agreement – registration
- b) protection of library stock and other items owned by the ERLPR
- c) preventing misuse of the Internet for criminal activity
- d) statistical evaluation of the ERLPR's activities
- e) recording income and collection of money owed
- f) procedures in dealing with user requests
- g) information about services provided by the ERLPR
- h) participation in educational and cultural events

Personal data is processed by ERLPR staff both manually and electronically. The ERLPR processes only genuine and precise personal data, which it verifies for the purpose. Personal data is processed only to the extent necessary and for a time period which is essential for the purpose for which the data was provided.

The ERLPR processes personal data of registered users to the following extent:

1. Basic data of a registered user consists in his/her:

- a) name and surname
- b) permanent address; in the case of foreigners, their address in the CR
- c) date of birth
- d) type and number of personal ID
- e) country in which the document was issued, if other than the CR
- f) holder of a ZTP/P card or confirmation from an optician for the registration of a visually impaired user of the Library for the visually impaired

2. Additional data which an applicant for registration is not obliged to provide (optional data) includes:

- a) user's contact address for the forwarding of information if this address differs from the permanent address
- b) telephone number
- c) e-mail address
- d) academic title
- e) data for setting the level of the registration fee (student, senior citizen, holder of TP or ZTP cards)

The applicant is obliged to provide the basic data and agree to its processing. S/he is not obliged to provide additional data.

The ERLPR verifies the basic data according to the user's valid personal documents on the occasion of the user's initial registration, then in the event of any change in this data and renewal of registration. In order to protect library stock and proper use thereof, the library takes care to ensure there are no cases of multiple registrations by a single user.

Therefore, in order to prevent such an occurrence, prior to the registration of a user, library staff will run a check in the database of registered users. Data in the sense of item 1 f) above should be provided by a user wishing to use the advantages provided by the ERLPR to visually impaired users.

A registered user is obliged to announce personally any change of name, surname or address without undue delay.

Data in the sense of item 2 a) to c) above are provided if the user wishes to enable the ERLPR to use such data in communications concerning library information, e.g. an order, reservation or sending reminders. Data in the sense of item 2 f) above should be provided by a user wishing to claim a reduction in the registration fee.

3. Service data refers to data concerning transactions carried out in a reader's account, including the date and time of the transaction and user name (login) of the library employee concerned. Administrative data consists especially in the following:

- a) registration and library card
- b) the subject, place and time of the issue and termination of a circulating loan or recorded onsite loan of an item not in free selection
- c) order of a library item
- d) reservation of a library item
- e) loan via the inter-library loan system
- f) payment for damage caused to a loaned item
- g) reminders sent

4. Accounting data refers to data concerning outstanding debts and financial transactions between the user and the ERLPR, including especially purpose, place, time, user name of the library employee concerned and other details.

5. Legal data refers to data concerning legal measures taken by the ERLPR against a user who is delaying making necessary payments or has in some way caused harm to the ERLPR. Such data concerns especially when and to which public authority a request was addressed regarding protection of the legal rights of the ERLPR and the response of that authority. Legal data also includes papers from the user containing requests addressed to the library.

II. Storing personal data

Personal data of users of the ERLPR is stored:

1. In original documents, which are:

- a) user's registration form
- b) accounting and legal documents
- c) documents submitted by the user, relevant to the application

Written documents are stored in locked boxes or drawers in the administrative section of the library to which users and other unauthorised persons do not have access. Access to these written documents is available only to library staff within the parameters of their job description. Disposal of accounting documents and correspondence is conducted in accordance with law 563/1991 on accountancy, and law 499/2004 on archives and documents and on certain laws as amended, and in accordance with the Document and Shredding regulations of the ERLPR.

2. In a computer database, the security of which is ensured on several levels:

a) Physical protection

Users' personal data is recorded in electronic databases on a server located in a separate locked room. Works computers allowing access to personal data are located in specified places (offices or other designated work spaces) to which users and unauthorised persons do not have access.

b) Software protection

Access to library computer programmes (catalogues), in which personal data is processed, is secured by a password. The possibility of working with personal data is thus limited solely to library staff who are working with the loan module. Personal data is stored in a database, access to which is password protected. Back-up copies of data are regularly put on data carriers and preserve the state of the database up to a certain data. Data on external data carriers is encoded.

c) documents submitted by the user, relevant to the application

Library staff and employees of external companies who have access to the computer network for reasons of hardware and software maintenance are informed of their responsibilities when dealing with personal data of ERLPR users and are committed to confidentiality as regards such data. Employees of the ERLPR are obliged to process personal data strictly within the parameters of their job description and tasks assigned to them by their supervisors for the purpose and to the extent specified and in accordance with the relevant internal guidelines and regulations. ERLPR employees are amongst other things obliged to attend to the accuracy of processed data and verify the same according to relevant documents. They are further obliged to eschew any procedure which could be interpreted as unwarranted publication of users' personal data or such procedure which might result in a third party gaining unauthorized access to personal data of users of the ERLPR.

3. In archival media, which preserve the state of databases described in point 2 b) above, always up to a given date on standard media used for archival purposes.

It is not possible to remove users' personal data in archival media by deletion as in the case of a computer database on the server. Therefore access to archival media is limited solely to authorized staff.

Each renewal of data from archival media requires written protocol. For renewal of data from archival media stored more than 30 days before its usage, it is necessary to obtain written permission from the director of the ERLPR.

III. Period for processing personal data and its disposal

1. The library processes users' personal data to the above-mentioned extent from the moment the user submits a completed registration form to the library, then during the period of the contractual agreement plus 24 months, with the exception of personal data stored in archival media.
2. Personal data of a registered user recorded in paper form is disposed of by the ERLPR by shredding the relevant papers. Shredding is governed by Law 499/2004 on Archives and Records and changes to certain laws as amended, the Records and Shredding regulations of the ERLPR and further legal regulations.
3. Personal data of a registered user recorded in computer databases is disposed of by deletion of basic and other (non-compulsory) data.
4. Personal data recorded in archival media is disposed of no later than six months after the initial entry.
5. Personal data of a registered user who has no outstanding obligations towards the library is disposed of no later than 24 months after expiry of the last valid registration. Should the user still have obligations towards the library (unreturned items, unpaid fees), the contractual terms are not terminated and the personal data of such a user remains on file in the library system for such time until the obligations have been resolved and following such resolution are disposed of within a maximum period of two years.
6. In disposing of accounting data the ERLPR acts in accordance with Law 563/1991 on accounting.
7. Personal data of users which is recorded in paper form is removed from the registry after the expiry of a valid registration or completion of a procedure and disposed of in accordance with the Records and Shredding regulations of the ERLPR.
8. A user who is not in debt to the ERLPR may request the partial removal of certain personal data from the records without his/her registration being terminated. Such partial removal includes data concerning circulating and onsite loans, reservations and orders. Records less than three months old from the termination of a loan cannot be removed. In the case of such partial removal, the user renounces any rights to complaints arising from the partial removed data.
9. A request for complete or partial removal of personal data should be submitted by the user in writing. The application is handled after necessary verification of the user's identity within one month from the date of delivery. In case of need and with a view to the complex nature or number of applications, this period may be extended by a further two months. The applicant will be informed of such an extension within one month of receipt of the application, together with an explanation for the delay. This is on condition that the contractual relation between user and library has been terminated and the user has no debts towards the ERLPR.

The ERLPR provides personal data to third persons only in the event of such a request from users in relation to their own data or if a legal regulation requires it or to protect the rights of the ERLPR in the case of a debtor.

IV. Rights of users regarding the protection of personal data

- a) Right of users to access personal data
- b) Right of users to correct personal data
- c) Right of users to the deletion of personal data (be forgotten)
- d) Right of users to the restriction of processing of personal data
- e) Right to the transferability of personal data
- f) Right to raise an objection
- g) Right to lodge a complaint with the supervisory body (Office for the Protection of Personal Data)

The user is informed of above-mentioned rights in the Library Regulations and on the library web page at <https://svkpk.cz/?p=9432&preview=true>. The user has the right to obtain confirmation from the ERLPR stating whether or not the user's personal data is being processed and, if it is, the right to obtain access to such personal data.

The ERLPR enables the user to view the user registration form and other documents saved by the library. The ERLPR also allows access to certain personal data by means of the reader account.

The ERLPR will provide the user upon request with a copy of personal data being processed. If further copies are required, or in the event of clearly unjustified or excessively repeated requests being made, the ERLPR reserves the right to impose an administration fee. If the user submits a request in electronic form, wherever possible information will also be provided in electronic form by standard means unless the user requests otherwise.

The user may also request a copy of personal data in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable form (right to transferable data). Such a request should be submitted in writing.

A user who ascertains or suspects that the ERLPR is processing his/her personal data in contravention of the protection of private and personal life may request an explanation from the ERLPR and an end to the situation which has arisen (especially by means of correction, addition, restriction of processing or disposal of personal data). If the request of the user is upheld, the ERLPR shall rectify the unsatisfactory situation without delay and in a manner appropriate to the given case.

The user has the right to contact the ERLPR at any time concerning matters of personal data or to submit a complaint to the supervisory body (Office for the Protection of Personal Data).

Applications and complaints are handled by the ERLPR after necessary verification of the user's identity within one month from the date of delivery. In case of need and with a view to the complex nature or number of applications, this period may be extended by a further two months. The applicant will be informed of such an extension within one month of receipt of the application, together with an explanation for the delay.

Contact details of customer service staff authorised to provide information about processing of personal data (gdpr@svkpk.cz) appears in all sections of the library and on the library web page: <https://svkpk.cz/o-knihovne/struktura-oddeleni-knihoven/>.

V. Period for processing personal data and its disposal

The administrator of the camera system is the ERLPR.

For reasons of protection of property and safety of persons, the entrance and selected areas of the main building of the ERLPR are monitored by a camera system. Entrances to areas monitored by the camera system are clearly marked by pictogram. When entering the library users accept that their movements may be monitored.
